

A Restructuring of Samurai Japan ! (Japan Men's National Team)

~Make it pass the Final Qualifiers for the London Olympics ~

Samurai Japan (Japan Men's National Team) has developed a variety of buildup activities with a goal of the first Olympics in 44 years.

However, Japan Hockey Association (JHA) seriously took the disappointing result in the Asian Games and decided to restructure the team organization. Therefore, The final qualifiers for the Olympics on April in 2012 will be managed by a new lineup.

In accordance with this restructuring, JHA terminates the contract with a head coach Siegfried Aikman from the Neitherland. Also, JHA Men's High Performance Team decides new staffs by around the middle of March and prepares for the Olympic qualifying games.
